JOY! There's no other word for it. As unlikely as it seemed when we were at this point last year, Music4Life continues to grow and to outpace itself. Last year (ending August 31, 2017) we nearly doubled our productivity of the previous fiscal year. As of close-of-business on August 31, 2018, Music4Life exceeded even last year's banner record, delivering 311 ready-to-play musical instruments valued at $182,817 to our eight participating public school districts. Included were 1,725 recorders delivered to Highline and Everett Public Schools for use in our Link Up program with the Seattle Symphony Orchestra. The "joy" in it is in knowing that each of those instruments quickly got into the hands of a student who needed it.

There's a tendency to think that each of these 311 musical instruments benefits one child. But each of these instruments has a remaining life of anywhere from three to 15 years. More in some cases, especially with new instruments. So two to five students ultimately can be expected to benefit educationally from their use.

This year we added two new Programs to the list of public school districts we support: Kent and Marysville joined the recently added Auburn Public Schools. We're very glad to have all of them aboard.

As we begin 2018-19, the new year is off to a fast start, too. Emory Nordness, as well as Gerard Schwartz, Marvin Hamlich and so many others, would be very pleased.

Regards and many thanks to our donors,

David Endicott, Co-Founder
President

Purpose

Music4Life™ provides donated-and-repaired musical instruments at no charge to ten participating public school districts for use by students in-need. We encourage the school districts to make them available to the youngest students possible, at whatever age the districts start their instrumental music instruction. Why? It's because research show that students who participate in school-based instrumental music activities:

- Do better in math, science, history, literature, international languages, reading & writing, even in computer science, in addition to what it teaches in terms of teamwork and self-discipline;
- Have larger vocabularies and more advanced reading skills than their non-music peers;
- Demonstrate different brain development and improved memory over the course of a school year; and
- Report the lowest current and lifetime use of dangerous substances, including tobacco, alcohol and dangerous drugs.

Music4Life!

"This was a wonderful experience and I hope the kids enjoy the (instruments)."

Ron, Bellevue

Participating Public School Districts

Music4Life now serves students attending Auburn, Bremerton, Edmonds, Everett, Highline, Kent, Marysville, Northshore, Seattle and Shoreline Public Schools. Each of those Music4Life "Programs" is supported by local booster clubs, comprised of local community leaders. We seem to be adding one or two public school Programs every year. What the local booster clubs share is the understanding that Music4Life is just as much an "education program" as it is an "instrumental music" program. Otherwise, they each have numerous differences. For fairness, instruments and instrument values are provided to the school districts based on the relative financial productivity of each of their booster clubs: The more funds they raise so we can pay for instrument repairs, the more instruments their school district gets.

"The district (Everett), with the help of Music4Life is committed to providing a musical instrument to every student interested in participating in an instrumental music program."

Dr. Ian Saltzman, Superintendent

2017-19 Accomplishments

Our success is in the numbers. During the 2017-18 school year (beginning each Sept. 1st), Music4Life provided 311 ready-to-play musical instruments independently valued at $181,817 to our participating public school districts. During the 2018-19 school year, this increased to 334 ready-to-play musical instruments valued at $157,221. (Instrument values are volatile. A flute and a piano each count as just one instrument, but they can have very different values.) Instrument values are determined by our independent vendor/partner experts, the repair shops themselves.

There is a tendency to think that one instrument benefits one student. Because each instrument has a remaining useful life of anywhere from three to 15 years, as many as three, four or even five students may ultimately get the educational and artistic benefits from using it.

Finance Report

Music4Life enjoys the financial support of corporations, foundations, local booster clubs, community service organizations (i.e., Rotary, etc.), government agencies and many individuals. Our ongoing thanks to all of them!

We are largely dependent on the donations of musical instrument from those who provide us used musical instruments they have stored in garages, attics and closets. If you have a trumpet, clarinet, violin, cello, flute, trombone or other musical instrument and realize that its "highest and best use" may be to put it back into play, please contact us. We also accept financial donations to repair these instruments. Even at the discounted rates provided us by our preferred vendor/partners, on average it costs us $125 to repair a used musical instrument. Often more.

Fiduciary oversight of Music4Life is provided by an independent Governing Board of prominent local volunteers (see list on our letterhead on the inside cover of this report). Financial resources are mostly used to pay for musical instrument repairs, as well as for accounting and bookkeeping services, legal filing fees, registration with government agencies, brochures, insurance and other costs for producing the Music4Life activity (see detailed report on the facing page).

"Thank you so much for all you do to support our school district's Marysville and Tulalip students and families."

Jason Thompson, Marysville
Superintendent

Helping Music4Life

Music4Life now benefits from the in-kind assistance provided by many organizations and individuals. They help us raise local awareness, produce fund raising events, set-up and operate booths at local events and otherwise implement the Promise of Music4Life: Provide ready-to-play musical instruments at no charge to public school districts for use by more students.

We are fast approaching the acquisition of our first 3,500 musical instruments that may qualify for repairs. The Music4Life Governing Board wishes to thank all who help, especially those who support us financially.

There are 60 people (probably more) who volunteer their time and talent across all our Music4Life Programs, including service on our local booster clubs. If you share our appreciation of the unique value of "kids," "instrumental music" or "education," please feel welcome to join us in service to tomorrow's citizens and leaders!

All of us joyfully participate in Musi-c4Life because we know that thousands of students now benefit, musically and educationally, from what we do.

Music4Life now enjoys the endorsement of numerous organizations and individuals in the Puget Sound area, including:

The Encore Media Group (they produce the programs and other documents for the dozen largest arts organizations in the Puget Sound area)

"Our Shoreline Rotary Club members appreciate the work that you and others in Music4Life do to help young people have the opportunity to play musical instruments. It is a well-known fact that students who learn to play musical instruments perform better in school and I believe live happier lives. Thanks again for all that you do."
